A solar energy start-up recently hired a field sales team to quickly penetrate the market and drive sales. To equip the employees for the fast-paced, day-to-day hustle, the company provided each employee with the Samsonite Travel Warrior Computer Backpack. Complete with a packing cube, clear amenity pouch and another small pouch for travel documents, the luggage style main compartment fit everything the employees would need while traveling. Thankful for the professional, high-quality backpack to keep their belongings organized, the employees successfully navigated their territories and stayed motivated to reach their sales goals.
