

CANADIAN CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY ACT (CCPSA) STATEMENT

The Canadian Consumer Product Safety Act (CCPSA) was originally enacted in 2011 and is administered by Health Canada. The act applies to a wide variety of products including children's toys, household products and sporting goods. Many of the chemical regulations are focused on products used by small children and have specific requirements for items that can have contact with the mouth.

Gemline's compliance program includes adherence to the CCPSA, including the limits in lead and phthalates for certain children items. Our "kid-friendly" designated products are designed to meet the requirements for use by children.

Gemline can help our customers better understand CCPSA and how it can affect your business. Please contact your Gemline representative or Gemline Compliance at compliance@thegemgroup.com.